TID BITS

- Welcome to Rachel Falk who is joining Team Tourism as our new Marketing Coordinator.
- We are Ski Town and it snowed!! Yeah! Snow tires and plows are going on vehicles and the new Top of Village Boiler for Upper Carraige way is firing up.
- Bus drivers and plow drivers and Town Clerk, Oh My! If you know anyone interested in those positions (or any others) we are hiring.
- We had a Boards and Commissions Fair to recruit new folks to serve on our B's and C's. We received a few applications through that process. New and renewal applications are due by November 19. Appointments and interviews will be done at Council meetings in December.
- The micro hyrdo installation project is underway. With any luck, it should be producing power by the end of the year.
- We continue to work to get a consultant under contract to help with the early Childhood facility analysis. Essentially, we need their help to develop a high quality business plan and pro forma for an expanded center.
- We had about 60 folks attend this week's Tourism Talk. The next talk is December 1.
- We are once again planning to undertake another community job fair.
- We are working to get our new advertising agency under contract. Our current firm, Vladimir Jones, will take us through winter with our current campaign. We expect the new campaign to be in place this summer.
- The Board of Health met yesterday to consider new benchmarks for different COVID protocols. We have about a month to review the recommendations before the BOH formally adopts them.
- Speaking of COVID, the Recreation Center hosted a shot clinic this week.
- Shocking News! The Village's September occupancy rate set a new record of 55%.
- Critical News! Mark your calendar, our annual Holiday Party is set for Dec 3. Say it with me..... All the cool kids will be there.
